Nomadland: A Heroine's Journey for Our Time?

A Film Discussion Facilitated by Catherine Penn Williams, MA, LPC

Friday, September 10 — 7:30 to 9:00pm (via Zoom)

Fee: $15 (members); $20 (non-members)

Please see registration notes*

Nomadland, the 2021 Oscar winner for Best Picture, can be viewed as a meditation on individual and collective survival strategies in an increasingly corporatized and ageist society, a commentary on current-day social injustices, including economic inequality, as well as an illustration of how we respond to trauma and grief. In our discussion we will touch briefly on these issues and examine how they might intersect with the protagonist's journey of individuation. Ultimately, we will ask ourselves whether or not this is a modern-day illustration of the classic heroine's journey. Note: Please watch the film on your own before this event and come prepared to discuss your ideas/responses.

Catherine Penn Williams, MA, LPC is a Jungian psychotherapist in private practice in Tucson since 1989. She has been a student of Jung's work since 1991 and has a long-standing interest in the way films reveal and illustrate the process of individuation, particularly for the female psyche. Catherine currently serves as vice-president on the SAFOJ board of directors and is an experienced facilitator of small group discussions.
