This hour-long documentary explores the lifelong pilgrimage of New Mexico artist Meinrad Craighead and her mystical encounters with the Divine Feminine. Her spiritual and artistic journey extends from her childhood in Arkansas to studying in Italy and Spain, and spending 14 years in England as a nun. After settling in New Mexico in 1983 Meinrad taught and lectured about the Great Mother and art and led creative retreats in her studio. Her art drew from the traditions and imagery of Catholicism, Native American shamanism, and ancient mythology. This film shares the story of her impact and energy and includes nearly 100 of Meinrad's paintings and sketches. Meinrad Craighead died in 2019.

We will watch the film together, discuss the themes, and share our responses to Craighead's story and her images. We hope you will join us!
